People's Business Commission -

GORDON URGES DEMOCRACY IN ECONOMIC SECTOR

DAYTON, Ohio, February 10, 1977 -- A representative of the People's Business Commission (PBC, formerly the People's Bicentennial Commission) will lecture at the University of Dayton Wednesday, February 16 on a subject of democracy in economics.

Larry Gordon, a doctoral candidate in economics at George Washington University, will speak at 8 p.m. in the Kennedy Union lecture room. His address will urge greater democracy in the economic sector of American life, a position espoused by PBC, according to Brother Leo Murray, S.M., chairman of the lecture committee for Religion in Life, the organization sponsoring the lecture.

"PBC fights for the entry of human needs and social priorities into business on an equal footing with profit maximization," Brother Murray said. "Just as phase I of the American Revolution discarded English aristocracy in politics, phase II now works toward democracy in economics."

Msgr. Paul Louis, a UD professor of economics, will respond to Gordon's lecture, after which questions will be taken from the audience. There is no admission charge to the lecture.
